Employee of the Year 2007 – Employer and/or peer nomination

The “Employee of the Year” award celebrates the drive, determination and ability of an employee. They must have played an influential part in the success of the business by going beyond the call of duty and still have time to play an active part outside of work in the community.

Applicants have demonstrated evidence in the following areas:

- ◆ Ambition and creativity in their approach together with a desire to succeed.
- ◆ Excels against all performance related objectives and targets.
- ◆ An inspiration to colleagues and the ability to motivate others.
- ◆ Evidence of strong interpersonal skills.
- ◆ Is an example to which others can aspire.

Condition:

Applicants must be nominated by their employer or a colleague and must have been in employment with the company 12 months or more.

Using the Award Entry Guidelines, in no more than four pages explain why your employee or colleague deserves to win the title of Employee of the Year 2007.

Once completed, your entry(ies) can be emailed to richardson@cityofcoopersville.com or mailed to:

Chamber of Commerce,
The Chamber Awards 2007, 289 Danforth Street, Coopersville, MI 49404
